

Albright International Limited Sanctions Policy.

Albright International including its subsidiaries will not do business in, or with NORTH KOREA, IRAN, CRIMIA, SYRIA, CUBA and SUDAN, including any entities or persons in those countries, even if such transactions are currently lawful and comply with US, EU and other laws. This Policy reflects Albright International's assessment of the current risks and business opportunities to our Company as a whole based on legal and regulatory requirements, our reputation, and our obligations as a corporate citizen.

As a result Albright International legal entities, wherever they are located, should not accept any business (including new orders from existing customers or the submission of new bids) in and with these countries.

Albright International companies comply with US, EU and other international trade laws and will continue to comply with all such laws. This position statement may be amended as necessary in response to subsequent changes in law. If you have any questions regarding this policy please contact the board of directors.
